What is Cookies?

A cookie is a small data text file, which a Web site stores on your computer's hard drive (if your Web browser permits) that can later be retrieved to identify you. The information we collect is gathered to ensure secure ordering process and to provide better web browsing experiences.
Will I receive any e-mail regarding Wowrack product promotions?

You will receive product promotional e-mail ONLY if you want to receive them. We provide a check box in our order form that asks customer if they want to receive such e-mail. If in any case you want to unsubscribe the product promotion e-mail, you can do so by replying to our email with the subject line containing REMOVE.

We highly value your data. We use 128-bit encryption technology and Secure Socket Layer (SSL) in all transactions where customers' information is involved. We keep customer's information in a separate secure server behind our firewall. This way you never have to worry about your information being compromised. Only a limited number of customer service, sales and accounting and technical personnel have access to your information. To ensure that you have the highest protection available, please download the latest version of Microsoft Internet Explorer or Netscape Communicator.

Will Wowrack ever change how customers' information is going to be used?

If and when Wowrack plan to change how customer information is going to be used, we will notify our customer by posting notice of the change in this site.

Is there any age restriction?

In order for you to make transactions through our website, you need to be at least 18 years of age. However, this does not mean that we restrict our services to visitors above 18 years of age. If you are under 18 years of age, you need to contact us either via email or phone in order to place any order. We may need your parental permissions in order to setup our services with you. Wowrack will be glad to guide you and get your account set up as quickly as possible.

I still have a lot of question about privacy. What can i do?
